Obituary

RICHARD GALPIN

Bloodstock agent Richard Galpin died Feb. 28 in a Miami hospital at age 71. Galpin had suffered a stroke Feb. 23 while in Florida for the Fasig-Tipton Calder 2-year-olds in training sale.

Galpin started out in England and bought, in association with Frank Chapman, the Newmarket Bloodstock Agency's name, with some of its clients, in 1959, when he also began training. The operation later became Newmarket International Thoroughbred Consultants and the main office was switched to Lexington.

Previously, Galpin had been an assistant trainer to Geoffrey Brooke, worked for Jack Fawcus, ridden as an amateur, and been the Newmarket correspondent of The Sporting Life newspaper.

He had two great mentors. Phil Oliver, dubbed "king of the English horse dealers," and pedigree expert Keith Freeman.

In turn, Galpin taught many of today's leading agents, such as John Warren, who is Queen Elizabeth II's bloodstock manager, Emmanuel de Seroux, Richard O'Gorman, Geoffrey Howson, Fiona Craig, Hugo Merry, and Andrew Sime.

Galpin bought at least 57 individual grade/group I winners, with international champion David Junior, who cost $175,000 as a 2-year-old at Calder; Kentucky Derby (gr. I) winner Monarchos; Bessemer Trust Breeders' Cup Juvenile (gr. I) winner Wilko; and Belmont Stakes (gr. I) victor Sarava being the best in recent times. Earlier on, Chief Singer—who cost just 10,000 guineas—and One In A Million, an 18,500 guineas yearling, stood out.

In 2006, when asked what was the secret of buying a good horse, he replied: "The mind has to be there, and the pedigree gives you the mind. It helps to have a great knowledge of past pedigrees.

"You must absorb yourself into the factors that contribute to a great horse. People ask (if it is) pedigree or physical conformation, but it's a lot more than that. Like a human, the body is a machine that has to perform.

"You see people doing measurements, but we just stand back and look. If it doesn't move and flow, then it's unbalanced. The measurements are important, but they show that a horse is balanced, something we do by looking. Body language is very important."

Galpin's ambition then was to keep going until he was 100, and some time along the way to buy an English Derby (Eng-I) winner. He won the Kentucky Derby, Irish Derby (Ire-I), French Derby (Fr-I), and Australian Derby (Aust-I), but not the Espom one.

In the 1970s, his business was shipping some 750 horses a year to clients around the world, and he established a busy office in Australia.

After the bloodstock market crash at the end of the 1980s, he moved his agency's headquarters to Lexington.

Galpin is survived by his second wife, Jayne, and four children.
