

2009 THOROUGHBRED MARES BRED

Mares Bred Down 13.5%

BY DAN LIEBMAN

Sizable drop considering the RMB was off 7.7% last year

To no one's surprise, the number of mares bred in North America in 2009 fell significantly. After 7.7% fewer mares were bred in 2008, that number dropped another 13.5% this year. The Report of Mares Bred (RMB) was released by The Jockey Club Oct. 22.

Reports received by the registry through Oct. 13 show 2,409 stallions covered 45,317 mares during this breeding season. Based on historical trends, The Jockey Club estimates another 4,000-5,000 reports will still be received.

The 2,409 stallions represent a drop of 8.9% from the 2,643 stallions that covered mares in 2008. Last year there were 52,410 mares that were covered; in 2007 that number was 56,796.

"Our mid-August projection of 30,000 registered foals in North America for 2010 was based on initial RMB returns, and these latest statistics reinforce that estimate," said Matt Iuliano, The Jockey Club's vice president of registration services, in a statement accompanying the RMB release.

There was also a huge drop in the number of stallions that covered 100 or more mares, from 113 in 2008 to 85 this year.

Both Giant's Causeway and Medaglia d'Oro covered 194 mares in 2009, followed by Candy Ride (182), Lion Heart (180), Corinthian (171), and Tapit (170). Next was the leading first-year stallion, Majestic Warrior, who covered 169 mares. Rounding out the top 10 were Street Cry (169), Indygo Shiner (168), and Tale of the Cat (168).

Though the number of stallions standing in Kentucky and mares bred in Kentucky fell, those numbers as a percentage of the total in both categories rose. There were 307 stallions in Kentucky that covered mares, down from 318, and 19,059 mares were covered in the state, compared to 21,237 in 2008. The number of stallions represented 12.7% of the total, up from 12%, and the number of mares was 42.1%, up from 40.7%.

Florida still ranked second in terms of the number of mares bred in the state, but the percentage dropped from 10.1% to 8.9%. The number of Florida stallions that covered mares fell from 202 to 155.

Louisiana, despite being down 13.3% year-to-year with 3,048 mares bred in 2009, jumped over California to claim the third spot by percentage of mares bred. While Louisiana remained even at 6.7%, California fell from 7.3% to 6.5%. The 2,946 mares bred in California was a 22.8% decline. The number of stallions standing in California also fell from 233 to 201.

More breeders have been sending mares to Pennsylvania to take advantage of that state's breeding program and it showed, the mares bred rising from 1,237 to 1,603, the percentage increasing from 2.4% to 3.5%. As a result of the 2009 breeding activity, Pennsylvania went from 10th to fifth on the list of mares bred and the number of stallions in the Keystone State rose from 89 in 2008 to 97 this year.

Among the other states showing significant declines was Maryland, the number of mares bred in the state dropping from 1,195 (2.3%) to 755 (1.7%).

The gainers included Indiana, with 954 (2.1%) mares bred in the state, compared to 662 (1.3%) in 2008.
